Earnings could be a mixed bag

Chemicals: Muted revenue growth, flat OPM QoQ: We anticipate decrease in the topline (-8% QoQ/ -9% YoY) of our specialty chemical universe, which we attribute to a) seasonal factors, b) maintenance shutdowns, c) weak demand in China's domestic markets (with the Chinese economy opening up, companies there have been dumping excess inventory in global markets), and d) subdued demand in end-user industries. Leading innovators in their commentaries cited this as inventory destocking, effects of which are being borne by Indian chemical companies. However, the favorable trajectory of benign raw material (RM) prices should bring the much-needed respite to gross margins. We reiterate BUY on SRF (SRF) and HOLD on Deepak Nitrite (DN), Atul (ATLP), Navin Fluorine (NFIL), Aarti Industries (ARTO) and Vinati Organics (VO).

Key things to monitor in the earnings concalls: 1) Capacity ramp up (2) Product price trend (3) Performance in the end-user discretionary sector.

Textiles –QoQ revenue growth and cotton-yarn spread forecast to improve: Within textiles, we expect topline growth to stay muted YoY, impacted by falling yarn realisations and subdued export demand. The recent softening in cotton prices, coupled with the decline in crude prices and freight costs, could positively impact QoQ margins, albeit these may remain under pressure YoY. Anticipated high utilisation levels and the potential for positive operating leverage are poised to enhance margins going forward. We expect export demand to stay at a moderate level of restraint, with an increase projected in 2HFY24. Acceleration in volume shift from China to India and vendor consolidation by global retailers are factors that make us upbeat on the sector. We have BUY ratings on KPR Mill (KPR) and Gokaldas Exports (GEXP) and a HOLD rating on Vardhman Textiles (VTEX).

Key things to monitor in the earnings concalls: 1) Progress on FTA, 2) demand for yarn and price trend for cotton-yarn spread, 3) global inventory situation.

Others

EPLL (EPLL) – Healthy all-round growth expected: EPLL is expected to report healthy revenue growth, and the commissioning of a new plant by the company in Brazil. Margins should improve QoQ on softening RM prices and change in product mix. We remain positive on EPLL, considering its geographical diversification into high-growth markets, rising share of beauty and cosmetics category, and softening of cost pressures. We believe the company is ahead of the curve in sustainable packaging solutions and better placed to gain market share and expand faster. We have a BUY rating on EPLL.

Key things to monitor in the earnings concalls: 1) Demand recovery in China and Europe, 2) wage inflation across various key markets.

Praj Industries (PRJ) – Margins to improve YoY: We forecast 18% revenue growth, driven by execution of orders. With key RM prices softening over the last few months, gross margins could improve YoY but will likely remain flat QoQ. We have a BUY rating on PRJ.

Key things to monitor in the earnings concalls: 1) Orderbook position across all business segments, 2) outlook for the engineering segment.
